SCREENING

"Raising of America" - "Raising of America: Early Childhood and the Future of Our Nation," is a documentary series that examines how conditions faced by young children and their families form the foundation for a child's later success school and in life. The documentary explores the following questions: Why are so many children in America faring so poorly? What are the consequences for the nation's future? How might we, as a nation, do better? The Office of Diversity, Inclusion, and Community Relations will be hosting three screenings: Jan. 14th, Jan. 21st, and Jan. 25th from 5:30-8:00 pm at Brookline Public Library Hunneman Hall. Each night we will show a different episode from the Raising of America series, followed by a special guest speaker and open forum. Pizza and drinks will be provided. Free and open to the public, but please RSVP at <http://tinyurl.com/raisingofamericaRSVP> to ensure that we have plenty of food. Co-sponsored with the Brookline Commission for Women, BEEP, Brookline Commission of Diversity, Inclusion, & Community Relations, Brookline Interactive Group, & the Brookline Dept. of Public Health.

Mental Health Assessments and Treatment Resources Available Following Tragedy in Boston SMH & Mass 211 Partnership Launches www.StayStrongBoston.org

BOSTON - April 25, 2013 - For Immediate Release - To assist in the mental recovery from the recent Boston Marathon attack, the Boston-area nonprofit, Screening for Mental Health, Inc. is partnering with Mass 211 and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's (SAMHSA) Disaster Distress Hotline to provide the public with online mental health assessments and treatment resources at www.StayStrongBoston.org. The website, created with support from an initiative with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Suicide Prevention Program, will take individuals to a mental health assessment and information on how to contact the SAMHSA Disaster Distress Hotline.

"StayStrongBoston.org will help individuals assess if they are struggling with a mental health concern, educate friends and family members on what to do if a loved one is at risk, and provide individuals with the resources to talk to a mental health professional about their own or a loved one's situation," said Douglas G. Jacobs, M.D., associate clinical professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and the founder of Screening for Mental Health, Inc. "Traumatic events can trigger signs of distress in those affected by a crisis. It doesn't matter what your relationship was to the bombings in Boston-it is important to reach out for help if you are showing any signs of distress."

According to SAMHSA, signs of emotional distress following incidents of mass violence may include:

- Eating or sleeping too much or too little
- Pulling away from people and things
- Having low or no energy
- Feeling numb or like nothing matters
- Having unexplained aches and pains like constant stomachaches or headaches
- Feeling helpless or hopeless
- Excessive smoking, drinking or using drugs (including prescription medication)
- Feeling unusually confused or forgetful
- Yelling or fighting with family or friends
- Having thoughts or memories you can't get out of your head
- Thinking of hurting or killing yourself or someone else
- Unable to perform daily tasks like taking care of your kids or getting to work or school

These changes-both physical and emotional-are normal and most often temporary. Following the recent bombings, some individuals will be more vulnerable to these effects than others. Survivors of the attack, loved ones of the victims, first responders and community members living in close proximity to the bombings and lockdown are at a greater risk. These signs of distress can appear immediately following a traumatic event and usually improve over time. If the symptoms interfere with daily life or if the symptoms become worse, it is important that individuals seek professional help.

"Trauma reactions such as stress and anxiety or depression are normal at this time," said Lynne Pizette, director of Mass 211. "It's important to allow yourself permission to experience these reactions. Take care of yourself the best you can, and ask for help from others if you need it."

Anonymous self assessments for PTSD, depression, anxiety and other mental health concerns are available at www.StayStrongBoston.org. After completing a confidential screening, individuals will receive feedback and a referral to treatment resources if warranted.

Screening for Mental Health Inc. (SMH) is the non-profit organization that first introduced the concept of large-scale mental health screenings with its flagship program, National Depression Screening Day, in 1991. SMH programs include both in-person and online programs for depression, bipolar disorder, generalized anxiety disorder, posttraumatic stress disorder, eating disorders, alcohol problems, and suicide prevention. SMH programs have been used by hospitals, mental health centers, social service agencies, government agencies, older adult facilities, primary care clinicians, colleges, secondary schools, corporations and military installations reaching individuals ranging from adolescents to older adults.

Mass 2-1-1 is an easy to remember telephone number that connects callers to information about critical health and human services available in their community. It serves as a resource for finding government benefits and services, nonprofit organizations, support groups, volunteer opportunities, donation programs, and other local resources. Always a confidential call, Mass 2-1-1 maintains the integrity of the 9-1-1 system saving that vital community resource for life and death emergencies. It is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and is an easy way to find or give help in your community. Mass 2-1-1 responds immediately during times of crisis, to field calls regarding the crisis and to direct callers to services most appropriate for their needs.

OBESITY PREVENTION

HBO's *The Weight of the Nation*TM was a national conversation in 2012 but the work to address the root causes of obesity is far from over. Confronting America's obesity epidemic requires ongoing action in every community across the country. Recognizing this, Kaiser Permanente and Community Initiatives partnered to create The Weight of the Nation Screening to Action: Quickstart Guide to help individuals and organizations plan and work toward collective action. Take a short "tour" of the new resource and then download a copy to begin this important work in your own community.

Commonwealth Care Now Covers Tobacco Cessation Medications and Counseling

Beginning July 1, 2012, Commonwealth Care covers all FDA-approved smoking-cessation medications and counseling support. Evidence-based studies have shown that a combination of behavioral counseling and pharmacotherapy gives smokers the greatest chance of success in quitting.

The benefit is basically the same as MassHealth's tobacco cessation benefit:

- Two 90-day treatment regimens per year with FDA-approved medication, including nicotine-replacement therapies (patch, gum, and lozenge), bupropion, and Chantix (varenicline).
- Up to 16 face-to-face counseling sessions per 12-month cycle. These 16 sessions can include any combination of two 45-minute intake/assessment sessions per year and 14 sessions of individual or group counseling. A fact sheet detailing the Commonwealth Care and MassHealth tobacco cessation benefits can be ordered or downloaded here.

The National Coalition on Health Care (NCHC) has released a plan, Curbing Costs, Improving Care: The Path to an Affordable Health Care Future, that "pairs nearly $500 billion in spending reductions and health-related revenues with longer-term policy changes designed to make health care affordable in the public and private sectors" -

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health (MDPH) is committed to the integrated delivery of health care through alignment of outpatient primary care, substance abuse services, and mental health care services. The Integration Initiative builds upon the successes of our state's health care reform work and the numerous efforts to increase access to patient-centered medical homes.

MDPH has formed an Integration Initiative Committee (IIC) to help identify and, whenever possible, overcome any potential barriers to health care integration in the licensing process. The IIC will assist outpatient primary care, mental health, or substance abuse providers that propose to add one or more of these services. The IIC will review the integration proposal, customize a process that best suits each provider, and streamline the application process.

Report:

Primary Care and Public Health: Exploring Integration to Improve Population Health.

Primary care and public health have critical roles in providing for the health and well-being of communities across the nation. Although they each share a common goal, historically they have operated independently of each other. However, new opportunities are emerging that could bring the two sectors together in ways that will yield substantial and lasting improvements in the health of individuals, communities, and populations. Because of this potential, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Health Resources and Services Administration asked the IOM to examine the integration of primary care and public health.

Smoking Cessation Information and Resources

In Massachusetts, 77% of adult smokers want to quit smoking. Those who attempt to quit using both quit medicine (like the patch, gum, or other medicines), as well as counseling are three times as likely to leave cigarettes behind for good. Smokers who have MassHealth coverage are eligible for only a $1 - $3 co-pay on all FDA approved quit medicines. Most smokers want to quit, and with the right support, they can.

If you or someone you know is interested in quitting, visit www.makesmokinghistory.org or call 1-800-QUIT-NOW for quit tips, information on health insurance, and to read the stories of real people who have quit smoking.

If your organization is interested in providing resources around tobacco cessation and secondhand smoke, visit www.maclearinghouse.com to download and order free materials.

The CHNA 18 Newsletter will be sent out during the middle of each month. We welcome submissions!

- Event announcements
- New programs
- Grants and funding opportunities
- Job openings
- New research
- Community resources
- Other information you think would be useful

We will do our best to include all the information submitted. Please send your information to our coordinator, Jhana Wallace, at jhanaw@gmail.com.

The newsletter will be sent out electronically. The deadline for submissions will be the last week of the month prior (for example, submissions for the May newsletter must be received by April 29th). However, if you come upon an item you think should be included and it's past the deadline, send it anyway and we'll try to include it.
